What were the strongest aspects of this internship placement?

I really got to interact with tourist from Utah and out of state. I enjoy talking with tourist and leading them to other attractions when visiting Utah. Having an internship at Visit Salt Lake really helped me at this internship as well. I enjoy the environment of the concerts and concert goers as well as the garden attendees.

Was the internship placement well structured? Why or why not?

The internship was a perfect placement and well structured. It was a transition like any other job. I got trained and from there they let you go on your own.

What would you recommend to improve this internship placement?

I would recommend more opportunity to try different departments. There is a lot going on at Red Butte. I was well aware and knew what was going on the majority of the time, but to experience the work that was put into a particular event would be cool to see. (More involved in weddings and special events)

Was your work and opinion valued by facility management and staff?

Opinions for making things more efficient and run smoother was highly valued and appreciated by the staff. If something was easier to do it one way versus another we would fill each other in on the easier way so everything was more efficient.

Would you recommend this internship to other students? Why or why not?

I would highly recommend Red Butte Garden to anyone seeking for a sustainable tourism internship. You interact with many people who are implementing sustainable programs within the garden and you interact daily with tourists from all over. They also have event planners, marketing directors, communications, school programing, and horticulture departments that may like to have an intern.
